

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS NEW BIDS ON FURNITURE

PWA Fails to Approve Wanamaker Contract For High School Equipment.

SAMPLES MUST BE DISPLAYED

After it was learned that PWA approval of the awarding of the contract to furnish equipment for the science-room in the new north wing at the high school to the Wanamaker contract bureau, of Philadelphia, was not forthcoming, the members of the Gettysburg school board—by passing two resolutions—Tuesday evening decided to re-advertise for bids on the necessary furniture. The board members met in the high school building.

The Philadelphia concern, one of three to bid on the equipment, was awarded the contract at a meeting of the directors on August 7, at a price of $4,099. The contract was awarded with the provision that it meet with the approval of the PWA officials. The other bidders were the Walrus manufacturing company, of Decatur, Illinois, at a price of $3,477, and the Hamilton Invenible company, of Two Rivers, Michigan, at $3,872. The equipment comprises an instruction table, a wood-top instruction table, fourteen Lincoln-type tables and fourteen biology tables.

Resolutions Passed

The first resolution passed by the directors rescinded the awarding of the contract to Wanamaker due to the failure to receive PWA approval. In the second resolution, it was decided to reject all previous bids and re-advertise, at the same time setting up new specifications and requiring that samples must be shown before the contract will be awarded. It is expected that the new bids will be opened on Monday, September 21.

Through a resolution passed authorizing the transfer of $3,500 from the general fund of the school district treasury to the construction fund, school officials will be able to purchase equipment for the new rooms that is not included in the bids.

The bid of C. M. Wolf, of Gettysburg, on coal for the public school buildings at $4.65 a ton was accepted by the directors.

Tuition Rates Accepted

The tuition rates of $3.86 for the grades, and $6.78 for the high school were approved. The directors also voted to admit non-resident pupils to Gettysburg classes, if they are properly qualified.

The treasurer's report showed receipts as follows: Rent, $50; tax liens, $69.75; 1935 tax duplicate, $4,663.50, and 1936 tax duplicate, $3,018.60. After paying checks amounting to $1,907.95, the treasurer reported a balance of $16,395.87.

A. E. Hutchison, vice president of the board, presided, with the following directors in attendance: John W. Brehm, Charles B. Dougherty, Ralph Z. Oyer, Charles S. Black, and Mahlon P. Hartzell, secretary. Prof. Lloyd C. Koefauver, superintendent of Gettysburg schools, and Edgar K. Markley, Esq., the board's solicitor, also attended.

TRUCK AND CAR IN COLLISION

John E. Moore, Chambersburg Street, Injured on Harris- burg Road Today.

John E. Moore, 42, 234 Chambersburg street, received fractures of six ribs on his left side, and lacerations of the forehead and the left hip, in an automobile accident on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road about 5 o'clock this morning. The accident occurred on the crest of a low hill just south of Schriver's crossroads.

Moore told Patrolman R. E. Mathers, of the local substation, who investigated the accident, that he was driving toward Harrisburg when he saw a truck driven by Clark L. Spidle, 18, Lemoyne, come toward him over the crest of the hill on the wrong side of the road. Spidle accused Moore of traveling on the wrong side of the highway.

The left front of the Lemoyne truck struck the left side of the Moore machine which spun about throwing the driver to the roadway. The Gettysburg man was brought to the hospital here where he was treated for shock. X-Ray examinations were made to determine the extent of the chest injuries. Spidle was unhurt.

The Moore car was nearly demolished. Damage to the left front of the Lemoyne truck was estimated at about $150. Both had to be towed from the scene. No charges have been laid.

TO APPLY STONE CHIPS, TAR TO TOWN'S STREETS

Tour This Afternoon To Decide Where Re-Surfacing Is Needed.

ACTION DELAYED DURING SUMMER

Following a decision reached Tuesday evening at the regular September meeting of council, the highway committee of council will conduct a survey of the streets of the town at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon to select those to be re-surfaced with stone chips and tar.

The question of the selection of the type of material to be used in the work has delayed action throughout the summer. Council finally voted to use tar that will be purchased from W. S. Hammaker, Harrisburg, and stone chips from Herbert G. Gengell, who operates a quarry east of here.

Work on the streets will begin as soon as the materials arrive and will be conducted under the personal supervision of H. W. Hoffman, road superintendent for the Hammaker concern.

Stresses Immediate Work

President C. W. Epley reminded councilmen that they are receiving severe criticism for failing to re-surface streets of the town that are in bad condition. "I believe in saving the streets now to prevent a double expense next spring," Mr. Epley asserted. He suggested High street, Stratton street, Springs avenue, Broadway and South Washington streets as being among those most in need of immediate attention.

The matter was brought before council Tuesday evening first by the Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock, rector of St. Francis Xavier Catholic church, who asked that council apply stone chips and tar to High street, which he stated has been practically untouched for the last ten years. He also asked that the condition of West High street at the Catholic cemetery be improved in line with previous promises made by council. Considerable sums of money have been spent in improving the appearance and driveways at the cemetery on the strength of council's promise to make the cemetery easily accessible by improving High street at that point.

H. W. Hoffman, the Hammaker representative from Harrisburg, came before council with the request that he be allowed to re-surface a section of street here as a demonstration of the effectiveness of his methods of using five-eighth inch chips under one-fourth inch chips and tar.

Inspection Trip

Councilman William Biddle, chairman of the highway committee, joined in the discussion and appeared to be in disagreement with President Epley and other members of council on several points. After tar had been selected as the material to be used and the matter of the selection of the streets placed in the hands of the highway committee, Mr. Biddle stated that he will not accompany his committee on their inspection trip late this afternoon. Perry J. Tawney and Ray Hoffman are the other members of the committee.

A number of other matters are to be investigated this afternoon by the committee members who will be accompanied by Mr. Hoffman, of Harrisburg, and President Epley. Requests for permission to lower a driveway at the residence of Joseph Smith, South Stratton street, at its cost to the borough and to grade the entrance to a new service station at York and Third streets will be investigated.

HELD FOR COURT FOR UNCOUPLING FREIGHT TRAIN

Gettysburg Driver Charged With Mal- licious Mischief By Detective.

INCIDENT TOOK PLACE AUG. 16

A freight train across the Fourth street crossing on the Western Maryland railroad was no barrier to the ambitions of Howard A. Miller, 40, 205 Washington street, for a spin in his automobile early the morning of Sunday, August 16. He simply opened the "jennie coupler" between two of the freight cars. Then he was able to drive across the street immediately after the train began to move instead of waiting until a long string of cars had passed.

At least that is the way Western Maryland Railroad Detective Milton R. Tipton and the chief of the railroad detectives from Baltimore interpreted Miller's actions. Detective Tipton signed an information against Miller charging malicious mischief to railroad property and arrested Miller at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Miller signed a plea of guilty at the hearing that followed before Justice Shearer and was released for his appearance in November court. He posted $300 bail.

It seems that the railroad officials might not have objected so strenuously to Miller's actions if he had made a good job of the uncoupling. But they say he failed to complete the operation properly and when the train started a draw bar was pulled from the coupling. It cost about $75 to get it back.

In addition to that it was inconvenient to move a freight car with a broken coupling, railroad officials said. Chains had to be used to pull the car to the railroad shops where repairs were made.

SEEK PRICES ON VAULT ERECTION AT COURT HOUSE

County Commission- ers Advertise for Bids on Construc- tion Work.

OFFICES WILL BE CHANGED

The Adams county commissioners have advertised for bids for the construction of a fire-proof vault on the first floor of the court house at the present location of the probate office and the removal of the partition between that office and the present Red Cross office. The bids will be opened by the commissioners at 11 o'clock the morning of Tuesday, September 29.

The construction of the new vault is the principal structural change at the court house included in a number of recommendations made to the commissioners several months ago by a special committee of the bar association and adopted by the commissioners.

The new vault will be used by the clerk of the courts, who will move into the office now being used by the Red Cross. The present clerk's office will be used by the Red Cross after the present clerk's vault has been combined with the present register and recorder's vault to give more space in the latter vault. The removal of the partition between the vaults of the register and recorder's and the present clerk's office vault is not included in the invitation for bids.

The new vault will have a re-inforced concrete floor and a 16-inch stone mason foundation wall will be erected in the basement of the court house to carry the east wall of the vault.

An opening 33 X 79 inches will be left in the east wall of the vault and the fireproof vault door now in use in the present clerk's vault will be placed there. The operation of removing the door from its present location and placing it in the new vault is included in the contract to be let September 29.

Other work that will be necessary under the scheduled changes will be of a minor nature and will not be given out by contract, the commissioners stated.

The commissioners viewed damage claims in Menallen township Tuesday afternoon and transacted routine business. All members of the board were present.

Final judgment in the case is withheld until the property on West Middle street, is connected with the sewer. Folk represents the owners of the property.

New Councilman

JESSE E. SNYDER

J. E. Snyder Is Elected To Council

Former Member Defeats Wil- liam Wavell for Unexpired Term of About 15 Months.

Jesse E. Snyder, South street, a clerk in the Gettysburg post office, was elected by a vote of 5 to 3 Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the borough council to fill the vacancy in council caused by the resignation of Constable Horace L. Bender of the third ward. Snyder defeated William Wavell, Steinwehr avenue.

Council's effort to fill the vacancy at a meeting last month resulted in a four-to-four tie between Wavell and Frank B. Slonaker. Under the borough code council was required to ballot again before the tie could be broken by the vote of Burgess Wilbur J. Stallmister.

When the matter came before council Tuesday evening, Councilman H. M. Oyer of the third ward, Slonaker's nominator, rose and informed President C. W. Epley that he wished to withdraw Slonaker's name and propose that of Snyder instead.

"I am informed that Mr. Snyder cannot serve on town council because he holds a government position," President Epley stated. Oyer replied that he, too, had "gone into that matter" and secured legal advice to the effect that there is nothing to prevent Snyder from taking his place about the council table. "I see no reason for the objections to Mr. Snyder," Oyer continued. "When he was in council he was conservative and I believe he is a good man for the job," he concluded.

Perry Tawney, the other third ward councilman, announced that his nominee, William Wavell, remained as a candidate and the roll call vote was taken which gave Snyder a majority of the votes. Snyder served for eight years on council and is a former chairman of the highway committee.

Snyder's election is for the unexpired term of Horace L. Bender—about 15 months.

Construction of Frame Buildings Is Permitted By New Borough Code

Wooden Structures, However, Are Prohibited Within 1,000 Feet of Center Square in Or- dinance Adopted by Council; 16-Year- Old Statute Repealed.

ORDER WARNING SIGNS PURCHASED TO INCREASE SAFETY NEAR SCHOOLS

Gettysburg town council Tuesday evening repealed its 16-year-old building code and fire zone ordinance and adopted a new measure permitting the erection of frame structures not more than 40 feet high and covering an area of not more than 2,500 square feet in the borough, excepting within 1,000 feet of center square. Within that radius structures must be entirely of fire-proof materials.

Councilmen stated that they knew of property owners who are contemplating building but who have been restrained by the rigid regulations against the erection of any frame structure more than 15 feet square. Construction of homes in Gettysburg is lagging because of the restrictions placed by the old building code and fire zone ordinance, councilmen asserted.

Frame Buildings Allowed

The new measure allows the erection of frame buildings outside of the 1,000-foot area—in most cases about two blocks from center square—but requires that the floors and ceilings be fire-stopped and have roofs of incombustible material. No frame building may be built within five feet of any lot line nor within 10 feet of another building.

Buildings that are to be used for public garages, bakeries, motion picture show houses, theaters, maintaining a dry cleaning business or for the storage of inflammable materials must be of fireproof construction throughout. Chimneys shall be constructed of brick laid in mortar with all joints push-filled, or of other fire-proof materials and lined with fire-clay flue lining. In frame buildings chimneys shall be built from the ground up.

Building Fees Determined

Violations of the sections of the new building code are punishable by a fine of from $10 to $100 and costs with each day's violation constituting a separate offense.

Under the old building code a flat rate of $1 was charged for building permits issued by the burgess, but under the new measure a graduated fee is to be charged. It will be computed on the basis of two mills for each dollar of the estimated cost of the project to the owner. A minimum fee of $1 and a maximum of $25 are set.

The code provides that "no wall, building or part thereof shall hereafter be built, enlarged, replaced, substantially altered or moved within the borough of Gettysburg until a plan or plans of the proposed work, together with a statement of the materials to be used, shall have been submitted to the burgess and the permit fee paid and the plan and statement of materials have been marked or stamped with the approval of the borough engineer and a permit issued for the work."

Several Ordinances Studied

The borough engineer is to receive one-third of the amount of each permit fee for inspecting the plan or plans submitted and an additional one-third thereof when the work has been completed and inspected.

Before the new measure was read to council, President Epley explained that building codes and fire zone regulations of several neighboring towns and cities had been taken into consideration before the measure was framed for this community.

Suggests Use for Market House

A possible solution of the problem of what to do with the borough market house in the American Legion building on Baltimore street was suggested by President Epley, who proposed that council investigate the cost of placing a small advertisement in a trade magazine stating the accommodations offered as a site for a sewing factory of some sort. He stated that he knew of several instances in neighboring towns where women's wear is manufactured giving employment to from 25 to 50 women.

The matter of employment of that number of persons was pointed to by President Epley as the most commendable feature of the project, the exact amount of the rent that might be secured for the building remaining in doubt. Borough Secretary Ross R. Myers is to investigate the cost of advertising the room and report back to council.

Chlorine Gas Purchased

Councilmen approved the purchase of a carload of chlorine gas at the old price of 5½ cents per pound. The present supply of chlorine will be adequate for the remainder of this year, it was stated, but under the terms of the old con-

FRANCE FACES CRISIS OVER SPANISH WAR

Paris, Sept. 9 (AP)—Admirant communist demands for French support of the Madrid socialist government against the Spanish rebellion, informed sources said Tuesday night, have created such a menacing problem Leon Blum is considering summoning an extraordinary session of parliament.

Because of the spreading wave of strikes, authoritative sources said, Blum is being forced to a showdown between the elements demanding France abandon its course of non-intervention in Spain and those backing his "hands-off" policy.

May Ask Vote of Confidence

He may face the issue, they said, by hastily summoning the parliament and asking the lawmakers for a vote of confidence.

Rightist quarters maintained failure of the government to act would be tantamount to an admission there are two powers in France—one constitutionally established and the other self-constituted and attempting to dictate to the government.

Growing resentment against the leftists' methods of trying to force the government's hand was reflected not only by opposition groups but also among some workers' themselves.

A score of persons were injured as leftist and rightist workers battled gendarmes in Clermont-Ferrand.

When more than 7,000 men and women struck at the Michelin tire factories in Clermont-Ferrand against the discharge of one employee, 2,000 other workers occupied the gardens of the local prefecture in protest, raised tricolor flags, sang the national anthem and demanded that leftists evacuate the occupied factories.

Senator Henry Lemery, former minister of justice in the Doumergue regime, sent Blum a letter describing Monday's one-hour strike of sympathy for the Madrid government as "insurrectional" and warning the premier of dire consequences should such demonstrations be uncontrolled.

"We cannot permit certain persons to impose on the government decisions amounting virtually to peace or war without even taking into account the existence of parliament," he wrote.

Lemery demanded to know what action Blum planned to thwart the continued spread of the strikes. He called to Blum's attention "rumors that the workers intend hereafter not to just suspend work but to take five-day possession of factories, detain managers and attempt to operate the seized plants by soviet methods."

3 Injured in Silo Near Littlestown

Three men were injured, none seriously, when Theron Bittle, aged about 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Bittle, who reside on the W. S. Menges farm, a short distance from Littlestown, plunged about 20 feet to the concrete floor of a silo on the Eugene Spalding farm, along the Littlestown-Gettysburg highway, Monday. In falling, Bittle struck two companions.

Bittle, together with Clair Moose, near Littlestown, Albert Moose, Littlestown, and Edward and Richard Smith, near Littlestown, were engaged in placing pipe and buckets in the silo preparatory to filling it. Bittle was standing on the upper rung of the ladder when it broke. As he plunged downward, he struck Edward Smith, who was standing on the ladder, and Clair Moose, who was holding the ladder. Albert Moose grabbed the youth in an effort to break his fall. Richard Smith was on another ladder when the accident occurred.

Bittle received injuries to his right hip and right arm. Edward Smith and Albert Moose received arm injuries. All were treated at the office of Dr. H. S. Crouse, Littlestown. Bittle, whose condition was described as improving, will be confined to bed for four or five days. His companions are able to be about.

URNS TO SOFTBALL

Seattle (AP)—Ed Goddard, of Washington State halfback, was thought to have what it takes to make good in professional baseball. But he threw his admirers a curve, and is playing softball this summer instead of the regulation game. He's just about the best hitter in the soft-ball league at San Diego, Calif.

NEW BUILDING CODE ADOPTED FOR BOROUGH

tract the borough has the right to order next year's supply at the old price. An increase in the price of chlorine is imminent, council was told.

Councilmen H. M. Oyer and Ray Hoffman were named to represent council on the Christmas decoration committee.

Pavements in front of four York street residences were condemned as hazardous by council and the property owners—James Howe, James Rinehart, William Oyer and Orville Riley—will be notified to lay new sidewalks in accordance with borough regulations to be given by the borough engineer.

Treasurer Reports

The monthly report of the treasurer, George R. Martin, showed the following expenditures for the first eight months of this year: Highway, $4,900.40; safety, $5,816.95; finance, $41,199.54; sewer, $2,865.60; property, $2,244.49; health, $547.10; water, $1,106.25; light, $5,165.45; market, $640.21; and miscellaneous, $5,494.10, total, $67,960. The expenditures for the last month are listed at $5,308.85.

The treasurer has received from the tax collector the sum of $22,235.13 in new taxes. The balance in the general fund as of September 1 is $16,926.23 with notes due of $27,000. A balance of $6,522.26 in the special fund is offset by $11,500 in notes due. Two new notes were ordered made in the amounts of $11,000 and $5,000.

A proposal by President Epley to investigate the cost of equipping the borough truck with a snowplow was delayed by vote of council.

Warning Signs Ordered

A report was received that a sewer line on York street is broken and clogged and that raw sewage is backing into the cellar of the Wierman property at 206 York street. The condition will be investigated and an opening made to repair the broken main. John Warner, West High street, reported that surface water is flowing into his cellar from West High street and asked that the condition be remedied. Alleys along the Wentz furniture store and the G. C. Murphy store were reported badly in need of repair.

Council voted to buy four "school-boy" steel warning signs to be erected in school zones in the town. President Epley said that 10 are needed. The signs cost $19.50 each. A yellow sign with black letters warns drivers to drive slowly while a red sign in the hand of a three-foot figure garbed as a school boy reads "Danger, school zone." Gene Sickles, Gettysburg, offered to paint school zone warning signs of a design of his own for $10 each.

Borough Engineer LeRoy H. Winebrenner reported that 3,160 tons of native stone will have to be supplied for the base course of the extensions of Fourth and Water streets and East Lincoln avenue. WPA labor will quarry, break and load the stone, he said. He estimated that the rock will cost council from 15 to 25 cents a ton at the quarry.

Health Ordinance Discussed

H. M. Oyer reported that the cleaning of water mains in the town has been started and council directed that the water company shall be charged the regular rates for digging permits on the openings they are making in the streets to conduct the cleaning operation. Mr. Oyer also said that the Wayne laboratories, of Waynesboro, will make a test of borough water.

After Councilman Charles T. Jacobs had reported on the progress being made in efforts to draw up an ordinance for milk, meat and food inspection here, a discussion of methods of procedure was launched. Mr. Jacobs read a letter from Solicitor Eugene V. Bulleit stating a borough's powers in the matter and suggesting a conference with the state department of agriculture, the agency that is charged with the enforcement of state laws affecting similar operations. Another meeting of the health committee is to be held in the near future, Mr. Jacobs said.

Burgess Gives Report

The following report was received from Burgess Stallsmith for the month of August: Building permits, $2; sewer permits, $4.50; digging permits, $12; guides licenses, $6; peddlers' permits, $5; fines from the office of Justice of the Peace Basehor, $310; fines from the office of Justice of the Peace Shealer, $305; fines for traffic violations $2, total, $646.50.

Police matters came up for discussion and it was suggested that better results would be secured by having two of the regular officers on duty at the busiest times of the day so that better traffic regulation would be possible. It was suggested that two officers should be on duty over the noon hour.

J. Price Oyer stated that he wants strict enforcement of the ordinance prohibiting double parking. Burgess Stallsmith said that the new traffic ordinance signs are expected daily and that as soon as they are erected strict enforcement will be put in effect.

Because of traffic congestion resulting from the parking of large transcontinental buses in center square while loading and unloading passengers, council directed the secretary to write the Greyhound company at Pittsburgh ordering them to find another terminal—away from the center of town—within 30 days. Councilmen said that they see no reason why buses should be allowed to double park when autoists cannot.

President Epley presided with Councilmen Charles T. Jacobs, Perry Tawney, H. M. Oyer, William Scott, William Biddle, J. Price Oyer and Ray Hoffman in attendance.

Two Women in Tears as Jurist Rules Custody of Infant of Nine Months Cannot Be Determined on Sentiment.

Bowling Green, Ohio, Sept. 9 (AP)—Two weeping women left the common pleas courtroom late Tuesday, one a mother, clutching in her arms the curly-haired baby boy the court had restored to her, the empty-handed foster mother who had cared for him during the last eight months.

The mother, Mrs. Mary V. Cook, obtained a writ of habeas corpus to regain 9-month-old James Edward Cook from Mrs. Leonard Kramp, to whom she had surrendered him soon after his birth.

As Judge Amos L. Conn gave his decision, Mrs. Cook dashed to the crowded spectators' seats, where Mrs. Kramp's mother held the baby. There she sought to seize James, struggling tearfully. The court bailiff then took the child and handed him to Mrs. Cook. She fled from the room her eyes streaming as she implanted kisses on James' chubby cheeks.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

SYNOPSIS: Fearfully, Carol Torrance has gone home from Atlanta to spend Christmas. Equally fearful, Blake Thornton, her employer, has gone to Florida, to try to persuade his neurotic and indifferent wife to divorce him. For he and Carol are deeply in love, and realize that come what may, they belong to each other. Blake has told Irma his mission, and she is being as difficult as she can. Blake holds his temper, but not easily.

Chapter 41 FUTILE HOPE

And then Blake said aloud: "You haven't any conception of love, have you? You can't even imagine loving someone so much you'd die for them. And that's why I love Carol. If I can't have her I don't want to touch another woman as long as I live!"

The passionate intensity of his voice shattered the glass about her once and for all. She really looked at him—for the first time. His face was white and stark and his eyes burned hotly. He means it, she thought dazedly; he's really mad about her.

She played her trump card—an appeal to his chivalry. He could be tender and generous; she remembered that from long ago. Surely he would be that now.

"Blake . . . you think I'm imagining my nervous condition. You think it's because I don't want to be a wife to you. That's not true; it's just that—for a while now—I'm going through a rather-trying time. . . ."

His heart sank heavily. So he had been right in his guess. . . . But he could not let her plead so thin an excuse.

"A great many women manage to endure their husbands and make them happy even then."

"I know," she said plaintively. "And so could I, probably. But I've always been so high-strung, and so I thought best to stay away."

He was moved to pity until he remembered the years before this, and he realized that her appeal did not deserve to be heeded. He said slowly:

"I'm very sorry—for your sake. But your excuse rather falls down, doesn't it? We've been living this hit-or-miss existence for years. You can't justify six years with something that's just happened."

She felt as if she were going mad—as if the walls were really closing in on her. She saw herself discarded for a girl; a middle-aged woman who would become merely an object of humorous pity. She made one more bitter attempt.

"I understand, of course. You married me, knowing that I was older than you; that I was sure to lose my attraction before you lost yours. And now that it's happened you're treating a beast, and trying to cast me aside like an old shoe."

Fury almost blinded him, so that he dared not answer her for a moment. At last he said with a creditable attempt at quietness:

"A boy twenty-two doesn't think, Irma; the poor fool just feels. You must have seen that possibility—better than I could. And since you've gone your way so completely there's only one answer: I don't matter to you any more than you do to me."

She said shrilly: "But you do matter! I—couldn't live without you!"

His mouth twisted bitterly. "You've made a pretty good stab at it so far."

"But I've had to. I'll come home with you even if it kills me!"

The melodrama revolted him. The supreme sacrifice, she was no doubt thinking. He got up and walked to the door and back.

"I'm sorry, but it's too late now. I couldn't play up. Do we have to talk about it any more? I'm offering you a chance to get the divorce yourself, on the grounds of cruelty."

"Suppose I refuse?"

"Then I'll have to get it myself, on the same grounds."

"You can't do it," she almost screamed. "I can refute anything you try to say!" She made a supreme effort at control, and went on in an altered voice.

"Blake, wait a year and see. You got tired of me; how do you know you won't tire of her?"

The room whirled dizzily with him. There was no use, of course, in trying to make her understand.

"I'm sorry, but I'm through—whether you believe me or not. I'll never live with you again; I'm putting the house on the market as soon as I get back, and starting divorce proceedings immediately. If you want to fight it you're at liberty to do so."

Her body sagged. He was speaking the truth and she knew it. At the sight of her ravaged face pity stirred in him, and he said more gently:

"Wouldn't it be wiser to follow my suggestion, Irma, and get the divorce yourself? People will think you're tired of me, and God knows that's plausible enough."

"And if I do, will you promise to wait a decent interval before you marry this woman? A year?"

So that people might possibly be deceived, he knew she meant.

"Of course I won't. I'm not a child, and neither is she. Our time is too precious."

"Then you'll have to make a cad of yourself and a joke of me. Because I won't do it."

She was bluffing him, of course; thinking he would not dare. And he knew she was bluffing. He stood up.

Irma sprang to her feet. "You'll never get it! They'll throw you out of court!"

He shrugged. "All I can do is try."

He turned away, sick of the sorridness and of her presence. He wanted never to see her again.

"There's no use in prolonging this cheap wrangle. I'm taking the next train home, and the papers will be filed Wednesday. If you want to reconsider you can phone me in the next few hours."

He laid his hand on the door knob and looked steadily at her. "And I hope you have a very merry Christmas. . . ."

He opened the door and went quickly out.

When he had gone Irma flung herself face down upon the bed.

She would be—from now on—one of those homeless, undesired women who drift from place to place; widows and divorcees who migrate with the seasons. Wherever she went whispers would echo in her ears.

And if she left the South she would hardly escape it: the migratory birds covered the face of the earth, and spread their gossip like pollen on the winds. She had no way of knowing that she was exaggerating her own importance; that what she did or where she went was of vital concern to no one but herself.

She thought wildly: I'll get back at him somehow for the way he's treating me. I've got to get back; I've got to make him suffer. . . .

The apartment seemed indifferent and empty after the warmth and life of the house in Meredith. Carol closed the door softly and went straight to the telephone without taking off her hat.

Blake answered the telephone himself with an eager "Yes?"

"Blake. . . ." The sound of his voice shook her so that she could not go on.

He said quickly: "Carol, darling. Where are you?"

"At home. I've just gotten in."

"May I come right out?"

"Of course. You're not busy?"

"There's no one here but me. I've been sitting here cursing the hands of my watch."

She did not dare to ask if his news was good or bad; she knew too well that he would have told her if it had been what they hoped for. A porter rang and handed her a florist's box; tea roses and delphinium with a card that said only: "With my heart. . . ."

Blake rang just as she finished arranging the flowers and she almost ran to meet him. He came in quickly and took both her hands and they stood for a space looking hungrily at each other. Then he muttered, "Oh, Carol. . . ." and took her in his arms.

She braced herself. "Was it—very bad, Blake?"

He winced. "You knew better than I did, Carol—how do women get like that?"

"I don't know." She laid her hand against his face and he caught it and kissed it. "They're blind from birth. I guess. You'd better tell me about it."

He told her, dully and accurately, because every word and gesture was burned upon his mind with acid.

"I must have gone crazy at the end," he confessed bitterly. "I threatened her and browbeat her as if I'd been a savage, I understood how civilized men commit murder: I could have strangled her—and laughed!"

She said quietly: "No, you couldn't. Not really."

"Yes I could have. I wanted to." (Copyright, 1936, by Marian Sims)

Carol makes a decision she will not regret, tomorrow.

Gettysburg high school opened its second week of football practice Tuesday when more than 50 candidates were sent through a snappy workout by Coaches Forney, Gilbert and Hachnlen.

The squad is expected to receive contact work the latter part of the week. Two practice sessions daily last week served to whip the team into the pink of condition and the entire squad is reported to be in fine fettle.

Negotiations are under way for a game to be played on the local field Friday, October 2. There is a possibility that a game may be staged Saturday, September 26.

Out of the Past Happenings of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg
Times the files reveal.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
New Automobile Garage: William F. Codori has started the erection of a new automobile garage at the side and rear of his residence on York street. It is expected to have the structure ready for use this fall.
William Codori, Jr., who has had considerable experience in the garage business in York and Philadelphia, will have active charge of the place after its opening.

Births: Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Slonaker announce the birth of a daughter.
Mr. and Mrs. Curnal Butt, of West High street, announce the birth of a daughter.

To Erect Parish House: Ground has been staked off west of the Episcopal church for a parish house.
The building, for the present, will be a one-story structure, 20 x 30.
John H. Crowe is the architect.
The building is being put up as a memorial to the Rev. Mr. Philippo, one of the first rectors of the congregation when it worshipped in the church on Carlisle street. Mrs.
Philippus furnished the funds for the building.

Gettysburg Has Flower Exhibit: Gettysburg's first flower show was held at the Court House on Friday when a display of a remarkable variety of handsome plants and pretty flowers was put on exhibition by a number of the people of town.

One of the collections attracting attention was that of Misses Carrie and Mary Young, of East Middle street, whose luxuriant ferns, asparagus vines, rubber plant, begonia and asters were specially fine.
The vase of handsome roses from the garden of Reuben H. Culp was another display which was worthy of special mention. Mrs. Robert Miller placed among the flowers a snowball—unusual for this time of the year.

Other exhibitors were: Mrs. Amos Eckert, coleus, asters, nasturtiums;
Miss Maud Bream, palm; Mrs. Elder, wandering jew, coleus; Mrs. H. B.
Nixon, roses, rutabaga; Mrs. Zane, dwarf sunflower, larkspur; Miss Sallie P. Krauth, Mrs. H. C. Picking, Mrs. Dorsey Dougherty, ferns; Rev.
W. B. Hooper, Dr. J. A. Singmaster, hydrangeas; Dr. Bickle, Mexican sunflower, asters; Mrs. Sheads, ice plant; Miss Lillie McClean, coleus, asparagus fern, begonia, asters, maiden hair fern, adiantum; Mrs.
J. O. Blocher, red and yellow cox-comb; Mrs. L. E. Binder, roses; Mrs.
Sandoe Kitzmiller, roses and asters;
Mrs. T. J. Stahle, roses; Frank Slonaker, begonias and a number of other plants; Mrs. Frank Rosensteel, Miss Rose Stock, asters; Mrs.
J. A. Applier, cannas; Miss Minnie Engelhart, yellow dahlias.

The idea was conceived and carried out so successfully by Miss Alice Forney, of Chambersburg street.

Firemen Went to Convention: Gettysburg's firemen, headed by the Citizens Band were the attraction of the town on Wednesday evening as they marched from the engine house to the Western Maryland station, preparatory to taking the evening train for York to participate in Thursday's parade held in connection with the big state convention.

Chief Wisotzky headed the firemen, carrying his large silver trumpet filled with asters, the gift of Miss Jennie Weaver. Every member of the Gettysburg company wore the new badge recently secured for parade days and James Aumen carried the guide flag.

Married at Home Wedding: The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Speece, on Hanover street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when their daughter, Esther Miller Speece, was married to Rev. Edwin Allen Chamberlin, of Buckhorne.
Rev. Hixon Tracy Bowersox, of Rossville, a Seminary classmate of the groom, assisted by Rev. Joseph B. Baker, performed the ceremony.

ABSENCE
I should be busy about the place
And trimming the windows again with lace.
I should be weaving a rug for the floor,
But what is the use, since he'll come no more.
It is evening now and I ought to be Getting the things that he liked for tea;
But I dread to have supper-time draw near,
For it only reminds me he won't be here.
I sweep the floors as a dull routine,
But what do they matter now, soiled or clean?
And here I am still with an old dress on,
For he that I tidied up for is gone.

Veteran Line but Green Back-

First Game Sept. 26.

Six lettermen will form the nucleus for the 1936 Biglerville high school football squad which opened its practice sessions Tuesday afternoon under the direction of Coach Bernard Thrush.
A squad of nineteen candidates reported for the first drill and this number is expected to increase within the next few days.
The upper county eleven will open its season Saturday, September 26, when Chambersburg high, Southern Pennsylvania conference champions, will be played at Chambersburg.
Coach Thrush faces the difficult task of building up a new backfield, only McCauslin halfback, remaining from the 1935 quartet.
The loss of Jones, fullback, will be greatly felt. In building up his backfield Thrush will attempt to uncover a capable punter, passer and quarterback.

Rice; the Sophomore group with Miss Green as supervisor; and the Freshman group under the leadership of Miss Waltemyer.

The election of officers will take place in September with each club electing its own leaders. Programs will be arranged according to the interests of each group. There will be joint cabinet meetings at which representatives of all the clubs will make plans for projects and entertainments in which all participate.

For the most part the clubs will decide separately upon the things they wish to do, except on a few occasions when they will combine to work on one big project.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rain to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only make-shifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

The novel, which took Hervey Allen four years to write, was finally whipped into its finished screen form after more than two years of arduous labor on the part of nearly 3,000 technicians, in addition to more than 2,500 players who portray the many characters seen in the film.

The cast includes ninety-eight speaking parts, with 2,550 bit players and extras appearing. Besides March and Miss de Havilland, some of the more important players include Edmund Gwenn, Claude Rains, Anita Louise, Louis Hayward, Gale Sondergaard, Steffi Duna, Billy Mauch, Donald Woods, Akim Tamiroff, Ralph Morgan, Henry O'Neill, Pedro De Cordoba, George E. Stone and Luis Alberni.

Mervyn LeRoy directed.
